

Easi-Grille is the perfect solution for all vessels entering High Risk Areas that need security and protection.

Our top priority is the safety and security of your crew, vessel and cargo.

Many vessels now entering the High Risk Areas seek protection from unwanted aggressors by putting bars on their porthole windows to attempt to protect them. In most cases due to the "Hot Works" situation, the vessel has to be "dry docked" or at the very least complex works have to be arranged to fit the bars safely, which, in most cases, are shoddily welded and as a direct result afford little or no protection.

Tests have shown in many cases that a force of less than 20lbs could remove many bars.

Insurers are now expressing concerns over the bars being permanently fitted to the outside of vessels from a health and safety perspective, furthermore crew morale is suffering badly due to many feeling like they are prisoners aboard their own vessel.

All these problems have been solved with the invention of the Easi-Grille.

EG Easi-Grille
PATENT APPLIED FOR
by EG Easi-Chock

Using state of the art marine fixatives able to withstand over 1.5 tonnes of pull, the Easi-Grille will attach to any surface on the inside of the vessel superstructure and can be removed by means of special bolts by the crew in an emergency or when they are not in a High Risk Area, thus addressing major concerns raised by Insurers, Flag States, Unions and Crew Members.

By using the Easi-Grille, vessel owners can significantly reduce their cost of fixing security grilles to their porthole windows and do not have to worry about extensive planning provisions to do so.

Masters are delighted with the results, happy that they get visible protection for the crew, vessel and cargo when they want, but can also return to "normality" when they want by being able to take the grille down.

Why not join the many owners who have converted to the Easi-Grille, it is quick, simple and highly cost effective whilst also being a major tool in the fight against unwanted aggressors entering your vessel.
